

BATS/T2 TRAINING MODULE SUMMARIES

BATS/T2-001	Introduction to the AV Industry	Basic Introduction to the general AV Industry looking at the specific structure of the Indian AV Market - provides introductory information on audio, video, control and integration.
BATS/T2-002	Basics of AV for Technical Teams	This course covers the basic principles of audio, video, control, integration, and installation. The fundamentals of audio, video, control and system integration are covered practical and engaging manner with real life examples.
BATS/T2-003	Basics of AV for Sales Teams	Same as AV for Technical but the content is pitched for more non-technical sales people.
BATS/T2-004	AV Project Management	This course covers all of the basics of AV project management - the systems and processes required to run a successful project. It looks at planning, documentation, detailing, budgeting, shop drawings, manpower, process, and also covers basic communication skills. This course has a very practical component on project scheduling and project monitoring and risk management. This course focuses on best practices in AV project Management. A copy of the "Best Practices in the AV Industry" is provided as part of the course materials.
BATS/T2-005	Display Technology Primer	This course covers all forms of AV display technologies historically to the latest emerging technologies and provides the attendee with a complete knowledge of all available technologies and how they are designed and used in AV solutions.
BATS/T2-006	Basic Technician Skills	This course covers the basic skills required from AV technician. Equipment identification and handling, basic safety, cable identification, cable pulling, cable termination, equipment mounting and cable and termination testing.
BATS/T2-007	How to Design AV Systems - Basic	Content for these courses is under development and they will go live in May 2010
BATS/T2-008	How to Design AV Systems - Intermediate	Content for these courses is under development and they will go live in June 2010
BATS/T2-009	How to Design AV Systems - Advanced	Content for these courses is under development and they will go live in July 2010
BATS/T2-010	Lighting and Acoustics for Video Conference Facilities	This course covers the design, fixture selection, calculations, proof of concept for video conference lighting design. It also covers the basics of acoustics, the problems and reasons behind poor audio performance in environments and the solutions required to solve these problems. This is a very practical hands-on course will real live demonstrations of the issue and solutions.
BATS/T2-011	AV Project Process Management for Senior Managers	This course covers the concepts of AV project management, the processes and procedures that a SI company must implement to manage projects to a budget, to client requirements and to enable SI's to maximise project profit. This course allows a Manager to be able to monitor staff and teams to see that they are following the correct process and implementing PM correctly in their company.
BATS/T2-012	What You Need to Know to Pass CTS	Reviews the basics of AV Technology and builds on Basic of AV for Technical Teams/Sales Teams enabling attendees to prepare for the InfoComm CTS Certification.